To: All Fluke Calibration Customers

On June 1, we announced that Fluke Corporation acquired the Ruska and Pressurements businesses from GE's Sensing & Inspection Technologies division. Ruska and Pressurements will be integrated into the Fluke Calibration organization. We are very excited about this addition to Fluke Calibration and what it brings to our customers.

The strategic fit between Fluke Calibration and Ruska and Pressurements is compelling. By completing this transaction, we believe we will strengthen our ability to provide enhanced products and services to meet your calibration needs. The combined entity will bring our customers the strongest portfolio of pressure calibration products and solutions in the industry backed by Fluke's calibration focused worldwide sales and support network. It better positions us to continue to provide the innovation that assures you'll be equipped to deal with tomorrow's calibration challenges.
